

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
INTRODUCTION Purpose and currency of checklist. This checklist is designed to be used with the CLIENT IDENTIFICATION, VERIFICATION, AND SOURCE OF MONEY (A-1) and CLIENT FILE OPENING AND CLOSING (A-2) checklists. It should also be used with the CRIMINAL PROCEDURE (C-1) checklist. This checklist applies to Provincial Court and Supreme Court sentencing hearings. This checklist is designed to help defence counsel prepare for sentencing proceedings: to identify and organize relevant information required to persuade a judge of the merits of a sentence being suggested on behalf of the client. However, a simple recitation of the checklist information should not replace advocacy on behalf of the client. When preparing for sentencing proceedings, counsel should be guided by: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) the principles of sentencing as set out in the Criminal Code, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-46; (2) the case law; and (3) the sentence proposed on behalf of the client. This checklist is current to September 1, 2022. New developments: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • COVID-19 pandemic. Check the BC Courts website (bccourts.ca) to obtain up-to-date Practice Directions, Notices to the Profession, guides to remote proceedings, and announcements from all levels of court in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Confirm procedures for pre-trial conferences, filing materials, in-person appearances, use of remote technology, and etiquette for video and telephone appearances. Check with provincial and federal institutions for rules governing visitation and court appearances for in-custody clients. • Impact of COVID-19 pandemic on sentencing: The impact of COVID-19 on sentencing is governed by the “collateral consequences” framework, pursuant to R. v. Suter, 2018 SCC 34. In British Columbia, the courts have held that “there must be some evidence from which the sentencing judge can conclude that the offender faces heightened vulnerability to the COVID-19 virus before the pandemic will be considered as a factor that may justify a departure from the usual range of sentence” (R. v. Goddell, 2021 BCSC 735 at para. 52; R. v. McKibbin, 2020 BCCA 337; and R. v. Chen, 2021 BCSC 697 at paras. 111 to 114). • Forms of address. The Supreme Court of British Columbia provided direction on how parties and counsel are to address a justice in a courtroom (see PD-60) and provided clarification on how to introduce themselves in proceedings (see PD-59). • Supreme Court of Canada strikes down consecutive parole ineligibility periods for multiple murders. In R. v. Bissonnette, 2022 SCC 23, the court struck down s. 745.51 of the Criminal Code, finding it violated s. 12 of the Charter and could not be justified under s. 1. Accordingly, offenders who commit multiple murders can no longer be sentenced to consecutive periods of parole ineligibility. • British Columbia Supreme Court strikes down mandatory minimum sentences for certain offences where the Crown proceeds summarily. In R. v. Penner, 2022 BCSC 175, the 4-year mandatory minimum sentence (“MMS”) for manslaughter using a firearm under s. 236(a) of the Criminal Code was struck down. Similarly, in R. v. C.B.A., 2021 BCSC 2107, the 90-day MMS for sexual interference under s. 151(b) was struck.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Supreme Court of Canada provides guidance on application of sentencing ranges and “starting points”. In R. v. Parranto, 2021 SCC 46, the court explained that sentencing ranges and starting points are tools “best understood as “navigational buoys” that operate to ensure sentences reflect the sentencing principles prescribed in the Criminal Code.” However, “[n]either tool relieves the sentencing judge from conducting an individualized analysis taking into account all relevant factors and sentencing principles” (at para. 16). • Supreme Court of Canada to rule on constitutionality of conditional sentence order (“CSO”) provisions under s. 742.1(c) and (e)(ii) of the Criminal Code. Bill C-5 is currently before Parliament to consider eliminating most CSO restrictions. In R. v. Sharma, 2020 ONCA 478, the court struck down Criminal Code, s. 742.1(c) and (e)(ii), making CSOs unavailable for offences where the maximum term of imprisonment is 14 years or life (s. 742.1(c)) or where the maximum term of imprisonment is 10 years and the offence involved the import, export, trafficking, or production of drugs (s. 742.1(e)(ii)). See R. v. Chen, 2021 BCSC 697 and R. v. Merkel, 2021 BCSC 839 for application of Sharma in British Columbia. The Supreme Court of Canada heard an appeal on Sharma on March 23, 2022. The decision is currently on reserve. • Bill C-5, An Act to amend the Criminal Code and the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, 1st Sess, 44th Parl., 2021. Bill C-5 has been passed by the House of Commons and introduced into the Senate and, if enacted, will repeal most CSO restrictions. • Supreme Court of Canada to clarify whether a sentencing judge is required to notify the parties of their intention to impose a sentence outside the range suggested by the parties. In R. v. Nahanee, 2021 BCCA 13, appeal heard by the Supreme Court of Canada on March 16, 2022 with reasons on reserve. the court held that “while it is preferable to advise counsel of the intention to impose a sentence outside the range suggested by either counsel, it is not an error of law or principle to do so” (at para. 46). The Ontario Court of Appeal has taken a different approach, holding that “if a sentencing judge intends to exceed the Crown’s position on sentence, the judge is required to notify counsel, provide an opportunity for further submissions, and provide clear and cogent reasons for imposing a sentence beyond the Crown’s position” (R. v. Blake-Samuels, 2021 ONCA 77, at para. 30). Of note: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Additional resources. See the Canadian Bar Association’s 2017 publication “Collateral Consequences of Criminal Convictions”. • Law Society of British Columbia. For changes to the Law Society Rules and other Law Society updates and issues “of note”, see LAW SOCIETY NOTABLE UPDATES LIST (A-3). The Law Society’s resources related to procedures generally and issues arising from COVID-19 can be viewed at www.lawsociety.bc.ca/about-us/covid-19-response/.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
CONTENTS <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Interview Client 2. Prepare for Sentencing 3. Contact the Crown to Find Out Its Position 4. Attend Sentencing Hearing 5. After Sentencing 6. Closing the File CHECKLIST 1. INTERVIEW CLIENT <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1.1 Conduct a conflicts of interest check. Complete the CLIENT FILE OPENING AND CLOSING (A-2) checklist. 1.2 Confirm compliance with Law Society Rules 3-98 to 3-110 for client identification and verification and the source of money for financial transactions, and complete the CLIENT IDENTIFICATION, VERIFICATION, AND SOURCE OF MONEY (A-1) checklist. Consider periodic monitoring requirements (Law Society Rule 3-110). Collect the following additional information: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> .1 Citizenship and immigration status, including place and date of birth. Where appropriate, review the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, S.C. 2001, c. 27 (the “IRPA”) to determine the possible impact of any conviction or any particular sentence on a person’s status in Canada, or refer the client to counsel who has expertise in immigration law. Consider IRPA, s. 36(1) and (2), to determine whether your client could face a removal order, as well as s. 64 to consider the effect of the length of a sentence on your client’s right to appeal a removal order. (See R. v. Gonzales, 2016 BCCA 436; R. v. Zhang, 2017 BCCA 185; and Tran v. Canada (Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness), 2017 SCC 50 regarding the effect of the collateral consequences of immigration laws on sentencing. See also R. v. Wong, 2018 SCC 25 regarding the requirement that a person be informed of the collateral immigration consequences in order to enter an informed guilty plea.). (If the client was between the ages of 12 and 17 at the time of the commission of the offence, refer also to the Youth Criminal Justice Act, S.C. 2002, c. 1 (the “YCJA”).) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> .2 Address(es) for the past 10 years, including names of people the client lives with now, as well as alternate means of contacting the client if they were to move (e.g., parents). .3 Education (where, when, level achieved) and any current schooling. .4 Other training, including certificates, special licences, or trade tickets. .5 Employment history, including: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (a) Current employment: employer’s name, address, and phone number (obtain permission to contact the employer); job title; length of employment with that employer; name of immediate supervisor; hours regularly worked; typical duties; and future prospects. (b) Previous employment: same details as set out in (a) above; reasons for leaving.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
(c) If unemployed: employment prospects, likelihood that any prospective employer will hire the client. .6 Family: (a) Marital status, including date and place of marriage, or duration and status of any common-law relationship. (b) Children’s names, ages, and gender, as well as custodial status. (c) Dependents: including whether the client is under an obligation to make maintenance payments. If the client owes maintenance, whether payments are up-to-date. (d) Parents: names, addresses, and occupations; relationship with parents if they are still living. (e) Persons who raised client; if not the client’s parents, get the same information as for parents. (f) Siblings: ages, addresses, occupations. 1.3 Obtain consents and releases from the client to obtain relevant information (e.g., medical, school, tax, and probation records). 1.4 Collect information relevant to sentencing: refer to item 2.4 in this checklist on submissions to sentence. 1.5 Ask for names and addresses of people who can testify to the client’s good character. 1.6 Find out whether the client can raise money to pay a fine. 1.7 Review the client’s criminal record with them, including previous convictions and outstanding charges, with the client. Consider the offence, place, date, penalty, and circumstances. Find out whether the client is currently on probation and if the probation officer is aware of the new charges. 1.8 Obtain the name of the client’s probation officer and, unless the client instructs otherwise, contact the probation officer to determine their position regarding the client and the charge. 1.9 Counsel the client regarding behaviour from now until trial or sentencing; advise the client of possible repercussions of further criminal charges. 1.10 Explain the sentencing procedure to the client. .1 Have discussions with the Crown concerning the appropriate range of sentence and inform the client about those discussions. Explain to the client that the court is not bound by recommendations of counsel. .2 If the client is entering a guilty plea, review Criminal Code, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-46, s. 606(1.1) to ensure the client understands that a guilty plea is an admission of the essential elements of the offence; the nature and consequences of a plea; and that the court is not bound by any agreement made between the accused and the prosecutor. Also note the Code of Professional Conduct of British Columbia (“BC Code”), rules 5.1-7 and 5.1-8. See also R. v. Wong, 2018 SCC 25.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
1.11 Advise the client of the victim fine surcharge pursuant to s. 737 of the Criminal Code. Note that in December of 2018, the Supreme Court of Canada declared the mandatory victim surcharge unconstitutional and the provision to be of no force and effect. Parliament has since passed legislation to re-enact the victim fine surcharge regime. The new regime, effective July 22, 2019, provides the court with discretion to waive the victim surcharge if it would cause the offender undue hardship or be disproportionate to the gravity of the offence or the degree of responsibility of the offender. Otherwise, the surcharge is 30% of the fine or $100 per count for summary conviction offences and $200 per count for indictable offences. The court also has discretion to order an increase in the amount of the victim surcharge if the court considers it appropriate and is satisfied the offender is able to pay the higher amount. For offences committed on or prior to July 21, 2019, no victim surcharge applies, as s. 11(i) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, Part 1 of the Constitution Act, 1982, being Schedule B to the Canada Act 1982 (UK), 1982, c. 11 entitles the offender to the benefit of the lesser punishment where a punishment has been varied between the time of commission of the offence and time of sentencing. Note that there is a separate victim surcharge scheme for provincial offences pursuant to the Victims of Crime Act, R.S.B.C. 1996, c. 478, s. 8.1. 1.12 Contact Crown counsel to discuss the possibility of alternative measures. If necessary, provide a without prejudice letter to the Crown indicating why the client should be considered for alternative measures. If the Crown agrees, then assist the client at an initial interview with the probation officer to determine the feasibility of alternative measures (including diversion or restorative justice programs). It might be necessary to adjourn the case for a number of weeks to allow that interview to take place. .1 This process will require initial consent from Crown counsel that alternative measures are appropriate. Discuss with the client, advising that diversion will require an acceptance of responsibility for the allegation and, if accepted, the client may be required to write a letter of apology or do community work service, but will be able to avoid a conviction under the Criminal Code. If there is a restorative justice component, the client may be required to have a meeting with the victim to apologize personally and to explain the client’s conduct. .2 The other requirements that often accompany an alternative measures resolution would be some form of counselling and a short essay from the client expressing an understanding of what a criminal record would mean for them. Go over this with the client, so that they are prepared. 1.13 Contact Crown counsel to determine, where appropriate, whether the matter can be resolved by way of a s. 810 peace bond so as to avoid a criminal conviction. The client should be advised that the peace bond may have compulsory conditions attached to it. The court must also consider whether a weapons prohibition would be appropriate (Criminal Code, s. 810(3.1)). 1.14 For an Aboriginal client, consider unique systemic or background factors that may have brought the client before the court. Also consider alternatives to incarceration existing inside or outside the Aboriginal community. For the purposes of Criminal Code, s. 718.2(e), counsel should provide to the judge case-specific information or set it out in the pre-sentence report (a “Gladue Report”, following R. v. Gladue, [1999] 1 S.C.R. 688).

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
Particularly if the offence is not violent and serious, and an appropriate infrastructure is in place, the judge should be encouraged to consider a restorative approach to sentencing. However: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> .1 Disposition must protect the community from future short-term and long-term harm. .2 The offender must want to participate, and community representatives should be willing to assume some responsibility in the healing process. .3 The victim’s interests must be accounted for (and the victim invited to participate). Further information on Aboriginal law issues is available on the “Aboriginal Law” page in the Practice Points section of the Continuing Legal Education Society of British Columbia website (www.cle.bc.ca) and in other CLEBC publications. 1.15 Discuss and confirm the terms of your retainer and the calculation of your fee. Refer to the CLIENT FILE OPENING AND CLOSING (A-2) checklist. 2. PREPARE FOR SENTENCING <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 2.1 Review case law on sentencing relevant to this case. 2.2 Review Criminal Code, Part XXIII, ss. 718 to 751.1, Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, S.C. 1996, c. 19 (the “CDSA”), s. 10, and, if applicable, YCJA, Part 4. 2.3 Consider the client’s criminal record in context: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> .1 How does the client explain previous convictions. .2 Whether the previous offences are related. .3 Time lapse since the last offence. .4 Whether the client was sentenced for previous similar offences. .5 Options for rehabilitation. .6 If the client received a discharge or record suspension (formerly called a “pardon”) for a prior offence, participated in an alternative measures program, or committed the prior offence when a young person, research the law on the weight to be given to such offences. 2.4 Prepare a draft submission to sentence. Consider including some of the following matters. (Assess which points help the client’s case, which points will be introduced by a social worker or probation officer, and which points may be raised by the Crown. Note any further research that needs to be done. For an Aboriginal client, consider whether systemic or background factors affect any of the following factors (for the purposes of Criminal Code, s. 718.2(e)). <ol style="list-style-type: none"> .1 The offence: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (a) The client’s mental state: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Circumstances immediately prior to the offence (e.g., intoxication, personal or financial difficulties), and whether these problems have since ceased or abated.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> (ii) Whether the client’s mental state at the time of the offence was such that the degree of personal responsibility for his or her act was diminished. See R. v. McGee, 2020 BCCA 362 at para. 20 and R. v. Milne, 2021 BCCA 166 at paras. 45 to 48. (b) Degree of direct contact between the client and the victim (e.g., physical contact or proximity, or no contact at all). (c) Whether there was harm to an individual, a business or corporation, a public or government body, and society generally. (d) Degree of violence: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Whether there was physical harm involved; if so, whether it was intended, actual, threatened, or potential. (ii) Whether there was death or permanent injury as a result of violence. (iii) Whether the client used more violence than was necessary for the successful completion of the offence, or whether there was an attempt to minimize violence. (e) Whether a weapon was involved. Consider firearms provisions of the Criminal Code. (f) Loss in monetary terms (value of goods taken or damaged). (g) Whether the client received a pecuniary profit. Consider proceeds of crime provisions of the Criminal Code. (h) Whether the offence involved an abuse of a position of trust. (i) Whether the crime involved abuse against an intimate partner and/or a vulnerable person (see Criminal Code, ss. 718.2(a)(ii), 718.04, and 718.201). (j) Whether the crime was an isolated offence or part of an organized criminal enterprise. (k) What consequences the client has already suffered as a result of the incident (e.g., loss of employment from being charged, deterioration of relationship with a loved one, adverse publicity, or shaming in the community). (l) Role played by the client in the commission of the offence: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Whether the client was the principal. (ii) Whether the client was under the influence of others by reason of age, intelligence, personality, or because of a special relationship with one of the other parties to the offence. (iii) Whether the client purposely involved others of previously good character in the commission of the offence. (iv) Whether the harm done was contemplated by the client at the time, or was the result of accident or occurred through the commission of a lesser crime. (m) Motive: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) The client’s motivation (e.g., money, revenge, excitement, need). (ii) The degree of premeditation. (iii) Whether the client acted under the stress of strong provocation. (n) Whether the victim consented to or provoked the offence.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
(o) Any previous relationship between the client and the victim. (p) The extent to which the use of alcohol or drugs was a factor in the commission of the offence. (q) Whether the offence was the result of other unusual circumstances. (r) Whether the client co-operated with the police in: (i) The client’s arrest. (ii) Apprehension of others involved. (iii) Recovery of property taken. (s) The client’s present attitude about the crime (e.g., remorseful, repentant, hostile, recalcitrant, denial of guilt). (t) Any circumstances of the offence that are particularly callous, vicious, immoral, or depraved. (u) Any possibility and suitability of the Victim/Offender Reconciliation Program. .2 Protection of the public: (a) Whether the client’s record indicates that they are a persistent offender whose removal from society for a substantial period of time is necessary to protect the public. (b) Whether the client is a dangerous, mentally abnormal person whose removal from society for a substantial period of time is necessary to protect the public. See BC Code, rule 3.3-3 and commentary regarding situations where a lawyer believes on reasonable grounds there is an imminent risk of death or serious bodily harm. A lawyer who believes that disclosure may be warranted should contact the Law Society for ethical advice. When practicable and permitted, a judicial order may be sought for disclosure. (c) Whether the client’s record indicates that the individual offences committed are few but are serious, indicating that imprisonment is necessary to protect the public. (d) Whether the offence committed was of a type that raises genuine fear on the part of the public or on the part of any special group. (e) Whether the victims of this type of offence can adequately protect themselves. (f) Whether the client’s previous record and the circumstances of the offence indicate that the client knowingly devoted themselves to criminal activity as a major source of livelihood. (g) Whether the client has a substantial income or resources that could only be derived from criminal activity. (h) Whether the client is a member of a delinquent or criminal group. (i) Whether the short-term gain achieved by the client’s removal from society through imprisonment would offset the possible destructive effects of imprisonment on the client’s future behaviour when they are finally released. (j) Whether deterrence is a major objective: (i) Whether the sentence contemplated is likely to be effective as a deterrent to this particular type of offence.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> (ii) Whether the publicity given to the sentence is likely to reach potential offenders. (iii) The likely deterrent effect of the sentence on the client's associates. (iv) Whether the client would be sufficiently deterred from further crime by reason only of apprehension and appearance in court, thus warranting a nominal penalty. (k) The extent of recent similar crime in the community. (l) Whether the sentence proposed adequately satisfies the public's sense of justice so that confidence in the courts is maintained. .3 Rehabilitation of offenders: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (a) Whether the client's record indicates a persistent pattern of crime or other forms of antisocial behaviour. (b) Date of the client's last conviction. (c) Gaps in the client's criminal record indicating that under certain circumstances they can live in the community without violating the law. (d) Motive for this crime: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) Events leading up to it. (ii) Specific motivation. (iii) Whether the crime was the result of circumstances that are unlikely to recur. (e) Whether the client views the criminal behaviour as wrong and appears to genuinely want to stay out of further trouble; whether the client is prepared to express remorse to the court. (f) Conduct of the client between commission of the offence and sentencing (e.g., co-operation with the police, compensation or restitution voluntarily made, good behaviour, acceptance of treatment, maintenance of steady employment, demonstration of remorse and reformation). (g) Anything in the client's history that may explain their present behaviour: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) History of social maladjustment in other aspects of their life (e.g., at school or employment, during military service, within the family group, or in the community generally). (ii) Lack of stability in employment or in personal relationships. (iii) Whether the client can form constructive relationships with other people. (h) Physical or mental disabilities, and whether they may have contributed to the commission of the offence and are curable or controllable. In particular, whether the client has: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) An addiction to alcohol or narcotics. Find out details of treatment, including treatment program, dates, and success. (ii) A physical disability or illness. Get details; find out whether the client is presently under medical care; if so, get the doctor's name and address.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
(iii) A serious physical injury. Get details (type, cause, date of injury); find out whether the client is presently under medical care; if so, get the doctor's name and address. (iv) Been hospitalized. Get details (name and address of hospital, reason for and dates of hospitalization, records). (v) Been in a mental institution. Get details (name and address of institution, reason for and dates of institutionalization, records). (vi) Been treated by a psychiatrist. Get details (name and address of psychiatrist, reason for and dates of treatment, reports or records). (i) If the client is addicted to alcohol or drugs, whether the client sees this as a problem and is doing something about it. (j) The client's educational and vocational handicaps. (k) The client's general level of intelligence and emotional maturity. (l) The extent to which the client has shown evidence of responsibility in the handling of their personal affairs. (m) The client's attitude towards authority; if the client has difficulty in this respect, any indications of why this is so. (n) Whether the client belongs to a delinquent or criminal group; if so, why the client joined, and what influence this group has on them. (o) Present conditions in the client's home; strength of personal relationships; how the client and their family have been affected by involvement in the criminal justice system. (p) Attitude of the client's friends and associates toward their criminal behaviour; whether any of these people have criminal records. (q) Whether the client participates in activities that suggest that, because of their makeup and personality, the offence will not be repeated (e.g., hobbies, sports, clubs, good deeds, church attendance). (r) The client's future plans (e.g., education, career, marriage, family). (s) Whether the client can face problems and accept criticism. (t) How the client estimates their capacity; whether the estimate is realistic. (u) Whether the client accepts supervision; the client's previous response to correctional treatment. (v) Whether unfavourable factors in the client's background can be addressed and overcome. (w) Resources available to the court by way of sentence or recommendation that may address factors associated with the client's criminal behaviour. .4 Appropriate sentence: (a) The maximum penalty; whether this is in line with commonly held beliefs as to the seriousness of this type of offence. (b) Whether there is a minimum penalty: (i) If this is for a second or subsequent conviction, whether the Crown has served the client with notice of intention to seek greater punishment (Criminal Code, s. 727), if it is necessary to do so.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
(ii) If there is a minimum sentence due to the presence of specified aggravating factors, consider whether the Crown has given notice that they intend to prove the presence of these factors (e.g., CDSA, s. 8). (iii) Review recent jurisprudence on the constitutionality of any applicable minimum sentence. (c) The average sentence for this type of offence and offender. (d) Refer to Criminal Code, ss. 109 and 110, in relation to firearms prohibition orders. However, consider whether your client requires a firearm for hunting or sustenance purposes, and therefore is eligible for a prohibition to be lifted (s. 113). (e) Refer to Criminal Code, s. 490.011, in relation to designated sex offences. Consider whether the impact on the offender of complying with the SOIRA would be disproportionate to the public interest. (f) Consider whether the client will be subjected to a DNA order under Criminal Code, s. 487.051. If the offence is a “primary designated offence,” then the court has no option but to order it unless the exception in s. 487.051(2) applies. If it is a “secondary designated offence,” it is discretionary and counsel may make submissions regarding whether it is appropriate. (g) The number of separate counts in the indictment; whether other offences are being taken into consideration. (h) Whether the client spent time in custody. Under Criminal Code, s. 719(3.1), the client may receive up to 1.5 days’ credit per day spent in custody prior to sentencing. The decision to award an accused enhanced credit at a rate of 1.5:1 pursuant to s. 719(3.1) is based on whether “the circumstances justify it” in accordance with R. v. Summer, 2014 SCC 26. See also R. v. Romanchych, 2018 BCCA 26 at para. 71 and R. v. Pete, 2019 BCCA 244. (i) Whether the client will incur other penalties as a result of conviction (e.g., deportation, automatic loss of licence or accreditation). Consider whether any property will be subject to forfeiture (see, for example, CDSA, s. 17, Criminal Code, s. 490.1 (order of forfeiture of property on conviction) and ss. 462.37 to 462.46 (proceeds of crime). Consider also whether the Crown did or will institute civil forfeiture proceedings. (j) Whether incarceration will affect treatment programs in which the client is involved. Consider the difference between a provincial sentence and a federal sentence, and which would better serve the client’s interests. Consider the timing of parole provisions, as well as treatment programs that are offered in each. (k) Effect of segregation: in R. v. Anderson, 2015 BCPC 210, the court reduced the global sentence from eight years to seven because the accused was likely to serve their sentence in segregation, for the accused’s own safety, and the likelihood of adverse effects on their rehabilitation. (l) Alternatives to incarceration: (i) Community service programs. (ii) Absolute or conditional discharge.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
Note that under s. 737.1 of the Criminal Code, the court must consider making a restitution order if an offender is convicted or is discharged under s. 730 of an offence. (iii) Probation. (iv) Fine. (v) Conditional sentence of imprisonment (Criminal Code, s. 742.1). Note the offences for which a conditional sentence is not available under s. 742.1 (see discussion of R. v. Sharma under “New developments”). (vi) Electronic monitoring. (vii) A judge is required to consider all available sanctions other than imprisonment that are reasonable in the circumstances and, under the amendment to s. 718.2(e), consistent with the harm done to victims or to the community, with particular attention to the circumstances of Aboriginal offenders (Criminal Code, s. 718.2(e)) (see item 1.14). (m) If a young person, refer to YCJA, Part 4. 2.5 Gather and make copies of documentary evidence: .1 Letters of reference (e.g., employer, character references). The ideal letter is from an individual who knows the client well and addresses the offence(s). However, general reference letters are also useful. .2 Restitution receipt, letter of apology to victim. .3 Progress report from present correctional centre. .4 Case law. .5 Existing medical reports, assessments, and pre-sentence reports. See also items 2.9 and 2.10 in this checklist. 2.6 Witnesses: .1 Interview and take statements. .2 Decide whether to call any witnesses. .3 Prepare witnesses for hearing (e.g., discuss courtroom procedure, how to answer questions, etc.). .4 Advise them of the hearing date, time, and place. .5 Advise the court clerk of any need for a translator. 2.7 Determine whether the client’s family and friends should attend in court, and so advise them. 2.8 Prepare the client, discussing what will happen, how to dress, and what to do and say (e.g., whether the client will say anything when the judge offers the opportunity at sentencing; if so, what). 2.9 Consider whether to get a pre-sentence report (particularly if an appeal from conviction will be pursued). If proceeding with a pre-sentence report: .1 Obtain a judge’s order for preparation of the report. .2 Advise the client to see his or her probation officer as soon as possible.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
.3 Advise the client that anything client says to the probation officer can be included in the report. While the client should be truthful with the probation officer, the client may wish to refrain from giving opinions about complainants, the judge, Crown counsel, etc. .4 When the report is received, review it with the client. 2.10 Consider the advisability of getting a psychiatric assessment, a report from an alcohol and drug counsellor, or a treatment plan; if you do, decide whether to tender it in evidence. 3. CONTACT THE CROWN TO FIND OUT ITS POSITION 3.1 Assess the strengths of your position and weaknesses of the Crown’s position, thinking about what you have to offer the Crown: .1 Discuss the possibility of alternative measures. .2 Discuss the possibility of a peace bond (Criminal Code, s. 810) where appropriate. .3 Discuss offering a guilty plea on one, some, or all charges. Before agreeing on a guilty plea, consider BC Code rules 5.1-7 and 5.1-8. .4 Discuss waiving charges from other jurisdictions. .5 Discuss amending the counts to be more inclusive, so as to reduce the overall number of counts the client would face. .6 Where appropriate, consider persuading the Crown to proceed summarily rather than indictably. 3.2 Confirm with Crown counsel the agreed facts to be presented to the court. If you cannot agree, then discuss a full sentencing hearing with the Crown. 3.3 Find out what submissions the Crown intends to make. 3.4 Discuss with Crown counsel the possibility of reaching an agreement as to the appropriate sentence, or of the Crown maintaining a neutral position before the court. 3.5 If the Crown is likely to be seeking a conditional sentence and/or probation, find out the wording of the proposed conditions and review them with your client. 3.6 Discuss with the Crown which ancillary orders they will be seeking (such as weapons prohibition, driving prohibitions, DNA orders, and SOIRA, s. 161 orders). 3.7 Discuss whether the criminal record will be filed. 3.8 Ask whether the Crown intends to request a pre-sentence report. 3.9 Prepare a final draft of submissions to sentence. (See item 2.4 in this checklist). 4. ATTEND SENTENCING HEARING 4.1 Prior to the sentencing hearing, provide Crown counsel with copies of any letters or reports you intend to tender as exhibits, and get agreement or have the authors ready to testify. Consider filing the sentencing materials with the court in advance.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
4.2 If a guilty plea has been entered, listen to Crown counsel’s reading of the circumstances of the offence: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> .1 Decide whether any explanation is required. .2 If the client does not accept the facts alleged, dispute them. .3 If the Crown disputes the client’s version of the facts, the Crown may be called upon to call evidence to prove those facts in dispute, and the client should be prepared to call evidence to refute any of the facts alleged by the Crown. 4.3 If there is a guilty plea, identify any triable issues that could have been argued had the matter gone to trial. 4.4 If the sentence is proceeding by way of a joint submission, advise the court. In R. v. Anthony-Cook, 2016 SCC 43, the Supreme Court of Canada held that a sentencing judge should not depart from a joint submission unless it would bring the administration of justice into disrepute or otherwise be contrary to the public interest. See also R. v. H. (C.R.), 2021 BCCA 183 regarding a sentencing judge’s duty to give cogent reasons for departing from a joint submission. 4.5 Ask the judge to order a pre-sentence or psychiatric report, or both, where appropriate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> .1 Advise the client to see their probation officer as soon as possible. .2 When the report is received, go over it with the client. 4.6 If the Crown is seeking a greater penalty, ensure that proper notice has been served and proved (Criminal Code, s. 727) or obtain instructions from the client to admit. 4.7 When the client’s criminal record is put to them, advise the court whether the client agrees with the criminal record and, if not, ask Crown counsel whether the Crown insists on its accuracy, intends to rely on it, and is prepared to provide some proof that it is accurate. 4.8 Make submissions, calling witnesses if appropriate, tendering exhibits, and focusing on viable alternatives to incarceration. 4.9 When sentence is ordered by the court: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> .1 Note the terms. .2 If a fine is imposed and time to pay is required, ask the client’s view on the reasonable time for payment and advise the court of the client’s request regarding time to pay. .3 If jail is imposed and the client prefers a certain institution, consider asking the judge to recommend it.
5. AFTER SENTENCING
5.1 Explain the sentence to the client, including any probation terms, victim fine surcharge, restitution order, and time limits.

LEGEND — NA = Not applicable L = Lawyer LA = Legal assistant ACTION TO BE CONSIDERED	NA	L	LA	DATE DUE	DATE DONE
5.2 The pardon regime has now been replaced by the record suspension regime, so explain the availability of a record suspension to the client (see Criminal Records Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-47, s. 3). (Note Chu v. Canada (Attorney General), 2017 BCSC 630, where the court held that the retrospective application of the record suspension regime is unconstitutional. Thus, the shorter waiting periods under the pardon regime will apply if the offender was sentenced when the pardon regime applied.). 5.3 Discuss with the client whether a sentence appeal is advisable. 6. CLOSING THE FILE 6.1 Prepare a reporting letter and account as soon as practicable after closing. Notify the client of limitation periods for appeal, and diarize dates. 6.2 If the client is not going to appeal, close the file. See the CLIENT FILE OPENING AND CLOSING (A-2) checklist.					