
From: Cooper Young [<mailto:cooperyoung1@outlook.com>]

Sent: Wednesday, June 25, 2014 5:29 AM

To: [BC lawyer]

Subject: RE: Your email

Good day to you and thanks for responding to my email. Please pardon my late email response its is as a result of my ill health and does not allow me to stay long on the computer sometimes pick the telephone due to my hearing problem and recommendation form my doctor.

I will give you a little detailed description of the incident with my former employer "Abbott Laboratories, I was on official duty going about my cleaning duties when one of our official trucks going out for delivery hit me while reversing right inside the Warehouse Premises, this happened on the 12th of February 2013 inside the company's Warehouse premises located in Vancouver

There have not been any attorney working on this case before I entered a settlement agreement and General release with my former employers (Abbott Laboratories) for $410,000.00USD because the accident lead to permanent disability as in my case have severe waist pain and can't stand for long anymore. I got paid $35,000.00USD-in two installment payment of $70,000.00USD but I have not received anything since I retuned back to the hospital because of the sudden pain that aroused in my waist 6 months ago. I would have loved to visit your office but I am currently still in the hospital receiving treatment in my waist and knees.

Different payment dates have been promised and I still have not received anything. Advice from my Doctor was to seek legal assistance that will assist me recover my money to enable me pay up my medical bills before I will return to my family in Tokyo, this is why I contacted you to act as my counsel and receive funds on my behalf. For my review I request your attorney-client retainer agreement and if the terms are acceptable I will sign so we can commence the process as soon as possible, then I can inform the company to expect contact from you as you have been authorized to act on my behalf and receive said funds or make contact with your firm. I would like your legal expertise in this matter on a contingency basis if that is acceptable, Please go ahead and run your conflict check, and advise me on your retainer's fee and send me a retainer agreement; I shall sign the agreement and forward it back to you.

Please do get back to me so I can furnish you with the required details to contact my former employer and receive my entitlements on my behalf as I know these companies respect law firms and do not want to be carried to court. My last contact with my former employer, I was told I would receive payment not later than Mid Nov 2013, up till date no funds were received, attach are the agreement we both signed and agreed on.

Thank you for your anticipated co-operation and understanding. Contact me should you require more information.

Regards,
Cooper Young
